It was one of those games that kept the audience not only anxious, but wild as well. A score of times a cold chill ran up and lown the spine of the "Rooters" for the ocals, and as many times they crawled out of a big deep hole.

If anyone of the attendants was ever subject to nervous prostration it was fully ested in yesterday's game.

The All Professionals gave our hoys hard fall the day previous, consequently in yesterday's game they held the locals cheap, very cheap, and we are of the opinion that at least two thirds of the audience did likewise.

The home team set the pace, the visitors closed up and away they went at the quarter; it was anybody's game. At the half it was the same. G. Reiman was going an awful pace, and Knorr was right at his heels. The race lay with these two Neither would give or take an Inch. They came down the stretch neck and neck. As they neared the post Knorr weakened just a little and Reiman went under the

The Ail-Professionals will close the series here this afternoon. It now stands game and game, and the one this afternoon will be contested flercely by both teams

Our boys are now playing in that never-say-die spirit and if they can land a victory today there will be nothing too good for them.

The visitors were first to reach the counting point, which was in the eighth inning, on an error and two singles.
Grooves hit to short. Wadsworth made a good stop, but threw too high for Weilner to handle, and the rupner was safe. Berte showed one for a single past third. Hail flew out to the pitcher. Heidleman pushed a single over short and Grooves crossed the siab. McGowan flew out to Frank and Schroeder to P. Reiman.

The score must be tied, so Cox started husiness by smashing a heauty into cen-ter for a hag. Frank sacrificed Cox to second. G. Reiman sent a long fly to center, and Cox took third after the ball was caught. We needed a tally to tie the score. Jakie Deisel was just the lad everyone wanted to see turn the trick.

Jakie didn't keep them walting long.

and stole second. McGowan missed the throw and he kept on to third. Heldie man dropped the ball and the runner still lived. P. Relman rolled one past third and Taylor went over the rubber. Wads worth singled over second. Wise sacrificed him to second and Weilner's out put him on third and Reiman scored. Cox bit into right for a base and Wadsworth went home. Frank hit to short and Cox got caught off of second and was put out. The visitors were easy game for Reiman in their half of the twelfth. George had his game won, and he didn't propose to lose it now. Knorr struck out. Grooves followed suit. Berte reached first on an error. Hall finished the business by fan-
